

About Bauart

Bauart is different. We are the "open source" of creative agencies.

Bauart has all the benefits of a large advertising agency but is as responsive as a one-man creative shop. We are dedicated to the concept that creativity is best handled by Art Directors and creative talent and should not be filtered through account executives and project managers.

When you engage Bauart Creative Services you are working directly one-on-one with the creative talent that will make your project shine. Project managers are an important asset to any large multi-stage project. Your Bauart creative director will utilize our project managers to organize and align your project to meet your needs. But, we never call on PM's to filter or make creative decisions. The voice on the phone, the face in the meeting is the creative talent you are relying on to deliver your project on time and on budget.

Bauart was formed in 2000 and has grown to include all branches of creative services. Whether you need the perfect photograph, a beautiful brochure, or a unique website, Bauart delivers the creative talent to make your project look great.
